

FORM FLYING CLUB HERE; 50 MEMBERS ALREADY ENROLLED

New Organization Meets With Much Interest and Enthusiasm on Part of Populace

MEMBERSHIP WIDE OPEN

Will Teach Piloting and Conduct
Airplane Model Contest
For Juniors

A flying club has been organized in Bristol among aviation enthusiasts. The name of the new organization is "The Bristol Flying Club."

While the organization at the present time is confined chiefly to those affiliated with the Keystone Aircraft Corporation, yet the membership is open to all citizens of Bristol who might desire to join and who can meet the qualifications.

The club was inaugurated here on January 28th, with 27 charter members, following a "Get-together" meeting which was held on January 20th. The next meeting was held February 11th, when there were 40 in attendance and six new members became affiliated with the organization which has now been permanently formed under the title of "The Bristol Flying Club," the main object and aims of which are to increase and advance the interest in aviation. The primary motive is to teach piloting of aircraft and mechanical construction and repair of planes and eventually to interest the younger generation in the formation of a junior chapter in which the Bristol Club will hold airplane model contests for boys.

The officers are:
President, Thomas M. Montgomery; vice-president, Hugh E. Konec; secretary, Elliott P. Cogswell; treasurer, F. A. M. Giordan; flight manager, O. E. Ross.

At the present time the membership has been increased to approximately fifty. Meetings are held on the second and third Tuesdays of each month at eight o'clock p. m. Membership is open to both sexes and women as well as men are urged to become affiliated in this new organization. No special qualifications either as to flying or a mechanical knowledge of airplanes are necessary. These will be taught by qualified men to those having a desire to learn.

The club will promote and encourage the art of flying, provide and maintain airplanes for the use and instruction of members. The membership is divided into four classes:

A—Student members—those who desire to support and encourage the art of flying and receive instruction in the handling, maintaining and operating of aircraft.

B—Flying members—those who have qualified as pilots with the Department of Commerce.

C—Associate members—those who desire to support and encourage the art of flying.

D—Sustaining members—those who desire to support and encourage the art of flying by additional financial support.

Application for membership and requests for further information should be addressed in the form of a communication to the secretary of the club, Elliott P. Cogswell, 521 Radcliffe street. Those desiring such information are requested not to telephone such requests.

The airplanes of the club will be purchased and owned by groups of students and flying members. The amount of money that each will pay will depend upon the number of people in each group and the cost of the airplane. There will be four classes of groups:

PICTORIAL RECORD OF INCIDENTS IN THE LIFE OF GEORGE WASHINGTON

WARM WEATHER BOOSTS CONSUMPTION OF GAS

Record Sendout for 24-Hour
Period Recorded in This District

TOTAL, 27,869,000 CU. FT.

Mercury's precipitate drop to eight above zero on Sunday morning was instrumental in setting up an all-time record for gas sendout in the area suburban to Philadelphia, according to officials of the Philadelphia Electric Company. In a 24-hour period, master meters of the utility company clocked off a total output of 27,869,000 cubic feet, topping a previous high record by approximately a million.

The system peak of the year, prior to Sunday, occurred on November 30th last when a sendout of 26,822,700 cubic feet was recorded. The thermometer registered 29 degrees above zero for 24 hours on November 30th, but there was no Arctic wind-blast accompaniment like that of Sunday last. The utility officials divide the credit for the new record between the character of the day itself and the increasing number of automatic residence and water heating installations.

MUSIC, READINGS GIVEN AT TRAVEL CLUB MEETING

Mrs. A. K. Gregory, Emerson
Club Member, Pleases
With Selections

MANY GUESTS PRESENT

With the music committee in charge of the afternoon's program members of the Bristol Travel Club and their guests had a most enjoyable program presented to them at the bi-weekly meeting in the Travel Club home yesterday.

Selections on the violin and piano, as well as vocal numbers were given. Readings were presented by Mrs. Alfred K. Gregory, a member of the Emerson Club, of Philadelphia.

The first portion of the afternoon's program consisted of four musical numbers: Piano duet, a military march, by Mrs. Marburg D. Weagley, chairman of the music committee, and Mrs. Edgar N. Gott; vocal solo, "A Brown Bird Singing," Mrs. Charles I. Bowen; violin selection, "Humoresque," Lester D. Thorne, accompanied by Mrs. Gott; piano solo, "Romance," Mrs. Weagley.

Mrs. Gregory's numbers were well given and added much to the program. Her ability to portray in a most natural manner the numerous characters in her main selection, "Diplomacy," proved interesting and amusing. The reading gave the listeners a glimpse into the home life of an Irish family, several members of which were puzzling over the real meaning of the word, "diplomacy." The manner in which diplomacy was used and practiced by Kate, the wife and mother in the home where ten resided, her workings upon the hearts about her, and the way in which she dispatched her many cares and duties both amused and held the attention of all. "Diplomacy," although unknown to the family group, and especially the mother, as far as the meaning of the word was concerned, was however practiced with great effect, redounding to the benefit of all concerned.

One of the short poems given by Mrs. Gregory was entitled "Bulbs."

Musical numbers which concluded the afternoon's program were: Alto solo, "Dreams of Long Ago," Miss Grace Shaver; violin solo, "Sextette from Lucia," Mr. Thorne, with Mrs. Gott as accompanist; vocal duet, "One Fleeting Hour," Mrs. Bowen and Miss Shaver; "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life," vocal number by Percy G. Ford, with "Good Night, Little Girl, Good Night," as a second selection; piano duet, "Imogene," Mrs. Gott and Mrs. Weagley.

At the opening of the meeting by Mrs. Frank Lehman, president of the club, tribute was paid to two deceased members, Miss Susan Iredell and Dr. Julia H. Slack, who died last week. Mrs. Eulen Martin told of Miss Iredell's interest in the club from the time it was inaugurated 29 years ago. Miss Iredell was a charter member and her interest was always an active one.

Refreshments were served by the hospitality committee, which is headed by Mrs. Harry H. Headley.

The club will conduct its card party which was postponed from last week, on the evening of Tuesday, March 4th. The annual business meeting will take place on Friday afternoon, March 7th, at which time officers will be elected for the ensuing year.

Mrs. Warren Armstrong, of 319 Jefferson avenue, passed Thursday in Philadelphia, visiting her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick McClafferty.

Farmer Uses Shot Gun To End His Own Life

While brooding over financial and domestic affairs early last night, James Welch, 54 years old, well-known farmer of Lower Solebury Township, near New Hope, committed suicide by shooting himself with a 12-gauge shot gun, according to Bucks County authorities. He killed himself in a wagon house on his farm.

Authorities claim that Welch had been acting strangely for some time and that his wife and children left him a few days ago after he had threatened them.

Welch and his hired hand, Elmer Jones, were the only two on the farm yesterday. Jones was in one of the buildings about 6 o'clock last night when Welch took a shot gun from the house and went to the wagon house. A few minutes later Jones heard a shot and, hurrying into the building, found his employer dead.

Welch in some undetermined manner set off the trigger of the gun and the shot entered his left ear, blowing off a portion of his head. Dr. John J. Sweeney, of Doylestown, Bucks County coroner, viewed the body and had it removed to an undertaking establishment.

Welch operated the farm about a mile and a half from New Hope for the past 25 years. He is survived by his widow, Anna, four sons and a daughter.

NINETEEN CHILDREN CARED FOR AT HOME

All Made Excellent Progress
At Convalescent Home At Langhorne During Winter

FIVE RETURNED HOME

LANGHORNE, Feb. 22.—The Philadelphia Convalescent Home for Children, here, has had a most successful winter as regards the health of the children, it was announced today by Mrs. Julia R. Hazard, secretary-treasurer of the home, and a member of the board of trustees.

According to the report just made public this week 19 children have been cared for and much improvement noted in each case. One child had tonsils and adenoids removed at a Philadelphia hospital, at the advice of Dr. Curtis C. Eves, who is now a member of the board of consultants. Dr. Eves is well known throughout this section as well as in Philadelphia.

Five children have recently returned to their homes, among them being three from the Delaware Hospital, Wilmington. One of the children was a patient at the Ocean City Seashore Home for Habiles last summer. Three children from the Seashore Home have been cared for at the Langhorne Home this winter. Applications are coming in from many districts. Reservations have been made for seven others. The infant from Bristol has returned to her mother very much benefited by her stay at the home. Two others from that district are being considered. Inquiries are coming in from Camden, and it is expected that two children from that New Jersey city will be admitted shortly.

The president of the Home, Rev. A. R. Kuldell, D. D., of Washington, D. C., spent a few days last week in this vicinity attending meetings at both institutions. While here he held a prayer meeting at the home with friends from Langhorne and Newtown attending. On Wednesday Dr. Kuldell gave a very interesting talk on Russia at the Newtown Baptist Church.

The World Wide Guild of the Baptist Church, Newtown, donated very pretty scrap books to the children last Saturday afternoon when a delegation of the members visited the home.

A doughnut party will be held at the home, here, Saturday afternoon, March 1st, when Cloris Aiken, the Sunshine Sister of the Argonne, will make doughnuts like she did in France for her "buddies." The public is invited. The time is three p. m., and a free will offering will be taken.

FOUR BEGIN SUITS FOR DIVORCES IN THE COUNTY COURT

Louise A. Kent, Croydon,
Starts Action Against Fred'k
M. Kent, of Illinois

DAMAGE SUIT IS BEGUN

Action Asks for Damages of $10,500 as Result of Auto
Accident

DOYLESTOWN, Feb. 22.—Four new divorce cases have been started in the Court of Common Pleas of Bucks county.

Raymond E. Carr, of 73 Hillside avenue, Doylestown, has started a divorce action against Edith May Carr, of 2546 North Sydenham street, Philadelphia, on grounds of desertion. They were married Sept. 21, 1927, in Philadelphia.

On similar grounds a divorce has been started by Selma Salinda Schaffer, of 143 Lawn avenue, Sellersville, against Monroe Schaffer, of Philadelphia. They were married on October 25, 1911, in Philadelphia.

Desertion is also the grounds for a divorce action started by Louise A. Kent, of Croydon, against Frederick M. Kent, of Oak Park, Ill. They were married in Philadelphia on Feb. 22, 1919.

George H. Custer, Jr., of 344 Crown street, Morrisville, has started a divorce action against Doris C. Custer, of 314 North Pennsylvania avenue, Morrisville, on grounds of desertion. They were married in Morrisville on October 2, 1923.

An action for $10,500 damages has been started in the Court of Common Pleas of Bucks county by Arthur Gerhart, of Souderton, against Harold Hunsberger, of Souderton. Gerhart is suing for personal injuries and damages to his automobile alleged to have been sustained on Jan. 13 this year in a collision on the Bethlehem pike near the Souderton road in Bucks county.

Thirty bills of indictment were laid before the Grand Jury at the February term of criminal court according to the report submitted yesterday. This is the smallest term in several years. Twenty-eight of the bills were returned "true bills" and two "not true bills."

The Grand Jury approved the petition for the erection of two county bridges, one over Core Creek on the road leading from Newtown to Dolington, in Lower Makefield township, and the other over Three Mile Run Creek on the township road leading west from Bethlehem pike towards Rocky Ridge in West Rockhill township.

The erection of a new laundry at the hospital of the Bucks County Home farm, the erection of a new milk house at the dairy barn on the County Home property, and the statement of finances of the county of Bucks for 1929 were approved.

New flooring is recommended for some of the offices in Court House row, as well as curtains for some of the windows. The Grand Jury further recommended that the Court House offices, owing to cramped conditions, be enlarged without the further purchase of new ground.

An increase in the pay of jurors and the mileage rate was also recommended by the Grand Jury.

The Bucks County Prison was visited and inspected and found to be in excellent condition. Members of the Grand Jury complimented Sheriff T. Hart Ross for his efficiency in the care of the prison. A similar report was returned in reference to the Bucks County Home and the hospital attached to it.

WHAT WORLD BUYS FROM U. S.

Americans would have a better idea of what the rest of the world thinks of them if they had a better idea of what the rest of the world buys from the United States. Because relatively few Europeans and Asiatics ever set foot on the land of the free, they get their most vivid impressions of American life from the articles with "Made in America" stamped on them.

It is reasonable that the representative citizen here should know less about his country's exports than is known by those remote peoples who buy them. This land is too large and its enterprise too vast for one small citizen to command a complete picture of it all, whereas the buyer in foreign markets sees it laid out before him.

How many Americans know that 25,700,000 false teeth are made here annually for mouths in Europe, Asia, Africa, Latin America and Canada? Or that foreign markets buy $368,086 worth of erasers from the United States in the course of a year? They make mistakes in other countries than this, it seems.

Exports of rubber bathing caps and toy balloons total $1,200,000 a year. Even our oyster shells are in demand across the seas. Exportation of phonographs and records is a $12,000,000 business. Horseshoes are manufactured here mainly to supply foreign markets.

All that the masses of many foreign countries know of the United States and its people is gleaned from these humble subjects. They and not American automobiles and American cotton leave the most lasting impressions.

SCIENCE FIGHTS ON

Psittacosis, or parrot fever, has spread to many sections of the United States since making its first appearance during the Christmas season, but it is not prevalent enough to cause serious alarm.

It was thought that the disease was contracted from ailing parrots only, but at least two cases have been traced to a sick canary bird.

At present the medical world is almost helpless in its fight against the disease, which has resulted in 16 or more deaths in this country and is reported to be even more prevalent in some other countries. But science is on the trail of the germ and can be depended upon to isolate it and find a cure for the disease.

Two scientists have already sacrificed their lives in the search for the germ and some protection against it. These deaths are examples of the quiet courage and self-sacrifice often found among men of science and which accomplish much for humanity.

This conquest of disease is an endless task. No sooner is the fight against one disease won than a new germ introduces itself and the battle must begin all over again. Safely past the diseases of youth, the individual must be protected against those of middle and old age. The old plagues and epidemics are driven out only to have their places taken by the flu and psittacosis. The situation is at once disheartening and heartening, for while the end of the fight is not in sight there is ample evidence of progress.

About all a rolling stone gathers is momentum.

SYNOPSIS
Joe Lane, ex-pugilist and star singer at the QRS broadcasting station, discovers that his manager, Arthur Phillips, is trying to ruin his wife, Katherine, away from him. He meets Phillips and in a rage strikes him down. Phillips' head hits the pavement and he is killed. Joe is sentenced to a year in prison for manslaughter. His cell-mate talks about the disgrace to a wife and children of having a convict for husband and father. Joe determines to take himself out of their lives. But when he is free he goes to the school to see his son. The little fellow starts to follow Joe and is run over by a motor car and injured so he can neither walk nor speak. Dr. Merrill, in love with Katherine, promises to operate if Joe will surrender the boy. He refuses, but lack of money drives him back to Merrill's office.

CHAPTER XX—Continued
Suddenly Joe stopped, leaning against the side of a great stone arch for support. His eyes were blurred with tears. He heard nothing; saw nothing. He only knew there, there, inside of him, was something calling for help. Not for help for himself, but for his child. "Dear God!" His lips were moving, but the sound was only a thin little thing wafted upwards and upwards on the wind. "I don't know how to begin—or how to say what I gotta say...I never tried to pray before...I guess I never lived the way I oughta, so there's no reason You should listen to me now—except this, God...I'm not asking You anything for myself. It's for him—my little boy—my Little Pal."

—that innocent little kid that never did any harm to anybody...He's just a tiny little fellow, God, and he don't know anything but love...Dear God! He's had a tough break and I wasn't his fault. It was mine!...An' You're not gonna make him suffer for what I did, are You, God?...You know I'd give my own life if that'd do any good...I'm weak and helpless, God...but I know You could help him. Won't You do it? Please, dear God, won't You do it..."

The voice trailed off into silence. Joe's arms dropped limply to his sides. Then he began to blink his eyes. He looked about. He was standing on the walk across Brooklyn Bridge.

How had he got here? He must have walked down from Dr. Merrill's office. That's where he'd been. And Dr. Merrill had told him that Little Pal would never talk again. But Little Pal would talk again. Joe felt that. There was a curious lightness inside of him. Almost like a dizziness. And he was happy. He was singing. He must go back to the cafe. Funny, how he was singing!

The song plunger almost ran as he made his way down the long walk and into the crowded streets below. People jostled against him but he pushed them aside. He hailed a cab. Nothing mattered. He must go back to the cafe. Even the taxi seemed slow. But there was Moritz's Cafe, with the lights already gleaming just ahead. He jumped out before the cab had stopped and dug a dollar bill at the driver. He raced inside.

"Sorry, Moritz," he panted, catching sight of the manager. "Important engagement. Be right back!" He took the steps, three at a time, and hustled back into his black suit, tying his apron about his waist. Down the stairs he came again, rushing to the kitchen for his towel. His feet seemed to dance as he moved. The man who liked his singing was there again. Moritz Goldstein, his name was. He'd sing for this man tonight—Goldstein would ask for him.

Back and forth he went between the kitchen and the dining room, now bearing heavily laden trays of food, now taking out cluttered, dirty dishes. But nothing mattered—dirty or clean. He jumped when Goldstein beckoned to him. "You goin' to sing tonight?" Goldstein grinned.

BRISTOL HIGH GIRLS
CAPTURE FIRST PLACE

After an interesting and exciting battle fray witnessed by many Bristol rooters the local sextet won from the Bensalem Girls and capped first place in the Girls' Lower Bucks County League. At half time Bensalem had a one point advantage, 18-17, but it wasn't long in the second half when the locals got the lead and held it until the end.

Rockhill was sole scorer for her team, shooting 12 field goals and one foul. McFadden failed to score any points although several times she could have done so.

The boys won from the Newtown quintet for the second time this season. The game was one-sided the first half, with Bristol scoring 16 against Newtown's 5 points.

Shields starred for the visitors while Green and Lafferty were outstanding for the local.

Shepherds of Bethlehem
Conduct An Initiation

Shepherds Delight Lodge No. 1, Shepherds of Bethlehem, held initiation in their lodge room, F. P. A. Hall, Radcliffe street. Eight new members were taken into the Lodge and the work was done by the active workers of Philadelphia, there being about 100.

The speakers of the evening were: Supreme vice commander, Harry Varthrat; past supreme commander, May Cedars; supreme outside guard, Blanch Noble; and deputy supreme commander, Francis Kehoe, of Philadelphia.

The initiation was followed by a covered dish social and the evening was enjoyed by all attending.

Michael Dougherty Is Laid
To Rest Here This Morning

Military honors were paid the late Michael Dougherty, Civil War veteran, who died Wednesday, when the funeral services were held today.

Members of Robert B. Bracken Post, No. 382, American Legion, attended the funeral from the late residence of the deceased, 324 Dorrance street, this morning, and high requiem mass was said in St. Mark's Church. Taps were sounded at the churchyard by a member of the Bracken Post; and the firing squad gave a salute.

Many relatives and friends were in attendance to pay their respects to the late Mr. Dougherty, who served his country well during the Civil War and who was signally honored for bravery. A large number of florists bespoke the esteem in which the deceased was held.

Burial was made in St. Mark's Churchyard.

Valeriano Ciabettone Dies
After Lengthy Illness

Valeriano Ciabettone, brother-in-law of Joseph DiLissio, who was killed here February 13th, died at his home, 1119 Wood street, this morning, following an illness due to pneumonia.

The man had been ill for a number of days, and was confined to his bed when DiLissio met his death. He was the husband of Carmela DiLissio Ciabettone and is also survived by one child.

The deceased was 31 years of age. Funeral arrangements have not as yet been completed.

Lena Di Emidio Dies
In Camden Hospital

Lena, wife of Gabriele DiEmidio, 29, died in a Camden, N. J., hospital on Friday.

The deceased was the daughter of Joseph and Maria Vattimo and resided with her husband and family at 298 Penn street. The survivors are her husband and four children.

Funeral services will be held from the Penn street residence on Monday morning at nine o'clock with high mass in St. Ann's church at 10 o'clock. Burial will be made in St. Mark's cemetery.

SCOUTS TO HIKE

Scouts of Bristol Troop No. 2 will take a hike to Rocky Woods tomorrow. All members desiring to pass second class tests in fire building, cooking and in tracking; and first class, axe and handicraft, will have the opportunity to do so on this hike. The Scouts will leave St. James's parish house at Wood and Walnut streets at one p. m.

Form Flying Club Here;
50 Members Now Enrolled

A Group will be composed of ten (10) members.
B Group will be composed of fifteen (15) members.
C Group will be composed of twenty (20) members.
D Group will be composed of thirty (30) members.

There may be more than one of each of the above groups. The club as a whole will make equal payments on a plane with the members of each group and will share in the ownership of the plane, the payments to be made from the club funds. The club may, from time to time, purchase the share of an individual member if he or she desires to sell. In this way the club as a whole, may, in time own the planes outright, these purchases to be made by the Board of Directors or authority of a majority vote of the club in assembly convened.

The club's planes shall be flown only by pilots licensed by the Department of Commerce or by students getting the time necessary for their licenses under the supervision of an instructor. No stunt flying shall be done without consent of the flight manager and no acrobatic flying shall be permitted at a height of less than 1500 feet unless the pilot and passenger are wearing parachutes.

Much interest has been manifested on the part of those thus far affiliated with the club and numerous residents here have signified their intention of becoming members.

The club officials want it to become generally known that any resident of Bristol of good moral character who is interested in the new project is urged to request further information.

The meeting Tuesday evening, February 25th, will be held at the American Legion Home, 619 Radcliffe street. The speaker at this meeting will be either Mr. Christie, general manager of the Curtis-Wright Flying Service or Mr. Avery, who will probably arrive here in one of the Curtiss-Robin planes to be used for instruction purposes.

MORE BUSINESS

Why don't you run your cars at more frequent intervals?
Why don't you buy some new cars?
Why don't you re-lay your track?
Why don't you reduce your fares?
Why don't you run buses instead of trolley cars?

Questions like these occasionally are asked by business men and others who are sincerely interested in our business.

As to more-frequent service: We would like nothing better than so much patronage that we should be compelled to run cars on shorter headway. But schedules are made to fit the demands upon the service. The more riders, the more cars and the more trips they make.

As to new cars: We operate six single-truck safety cars. They are serviceable, maintained in good mechanical condition, and operated by courteous employees. To replace them with new equipment would cost not less than $30,000. We have not the money with which to make such a purchase, even if it were an economical one to make.

As to our track: Our track through Bristol, Edgely and Tullytown is laid in concrete pavement, and is in very good condition. Elsewhere it is maintained in safe operating condition. We have no derailments due to the track—most of our track troubles are due to automobilists driving their vehicles into our cars.

As to fares: The unit fare is 8 cents, which is less than the average fare throughout the country. The 10-cent fare, with reductions for the sale of tokens in quantities, has become almost general. The fare we charge is low, the very lowest it can be and enable us to continue business.

As to buses: Read our next statement.

QUALITY
beyond all previous standards

In entering the 1930 market, Dodge Brothers were keenly conscious of two fundamental facts: First, that this year more than ever, value will be the basis of sales. Second, that the public is today better qualified than ever to judge value.

Dodge engineers met these conditions by designing two new cars with features that not only satisfy the demands of a thrifty and motor-wise public, but set the standard of values far ahead of any previous conception. Specifically these engineers have achieved:

SENSATIONAL VALUES

A NEW SIX

$835

AND UP, F. O. B. FACTORY

A NEW EIGHT

$1095

AND UP, F. O. B. FACTORY

- the lowest-priced Six Dodge Brothers ever have offered.
- the lowest-priced closed car of any model Dodge Brothers ever have offered.
- the lowest-priced car with Monopiece (Steel) Body ever offered.
- the lowest-priced Six with internal-expanding four-wheel hydraulic brakes ever offered.

- unmatched at its price for power, speed, comfort and safety.
- unparalleled in its field for quality, distinction and style.
- unequaled in value among popular-priced eight-cylinder cars—with Monopiece (Steel) Body, Down-Draft carburetion, weatherproof four-wheel hydraulic brakes, double-action hydraulic shock absorbers, air cleaner, oil filter.

These new cars have been the sensation of the winter's automobile shows. See them at your nearest Dodge Brothers dealer's showroom.
